

I believe that Sinclair Broadcasting is a prime example of politically-motivated manipulation in airing an anti-Kerry documentary just before the election without any opportunity for equal rebuttal. It points out the very real dangers of consolidation of the media by a few powerful corporations.

Sinclair is licensed to broadcast over public airwaves and as such MUST serve the best interests of the public. But as a large corporation, they disregard this with impunity and all they care about is their monetary bottom line and our democratic system is trampled. Instead of generic programs from one studio who knows where, we need objective dedicated news that provides substantive, accurate info on the whole world as well as our own communities. Sinclair's actions point up the need for ownership rules to be more stringent. Remember, it's supposed to be WE THE PEOPLE, NOT, we the corporations. Thank you.
